You know, a great many people make use of Facebook groups to generate network marketing leads for free. They discover groups identified with their niche, then go along with them and start to share their services, products or business in the group. Have you tried this? I have.

"We get extremely excited about our business and go to Facebook to share it with the world".

However, you should realize that Facebook is not a supermarket. People simply don't go to Facebook or any social media platform to purchase stuff.

Presently, while you might be in a Facebook group, filled with individuals who sometimes have need for or will love your products or services, their mentality on Facebook is not one of shoppers.

You need to post what will draw the attention of the audience to YOU and your product or services... Posting something of value here means posting helpful information that answers questions your prospects are asking.

Information that helps your customers solve their problems.
